OUTCOMES OF THE PROGRAM

Anwarul Uloom College of Business Management, in collaboration with its Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), recently organized a one-week faculty development program on Emotional Intelligence. The program was designed to help faculty members develop their emotional intelligence skills, which is essential in creating a positive learning environment and improving student outcomes.

The one-week faculty development program on Emotional Intelligence organized by the Anwarululoom College of Business Management's IQAC was a resounding success. The program helped faculty members develop their emotional intelligence competencies, which are essential in creating a positive learning environment and improving student outcomes. By focusing on subthemes that explored different aspects of emotional intelligence, the program provided faculty members with a comprehensive understanding of the subject and equipped them with practical tools and strategies to apply in the classroom.

Dr. Venkat Reddy spoke on various topics such as Understanding the concept of Emotional Intelligence (EI) and its importance in personal and professional life, Self-Awareness, Self-Management, Social Awareness, Relationship Management, Motivation, Self-regulation, Empathy and Social Skills. One of the major outcome of the FDP was the Faculty members reported that they were better able to understand their own emotions, triggers, and strengths, and how to use this knowledge to enhance their teaching and interactions with students. Another major outcome of the FDP was Faculty members reported that they were more empathetic and understanding of students' needs, concerns, and emotions and better able to create a supportive learning environment.

The program helped the faculty members develop effective communication and interpersonal skills to develop positive relationships with colleagues and students. The program helped the faculty members develop empathy towards others and understand their emotions.

In this FDP Faculty members reported that they had incorporated the skills and strategies they learned in the program into their teaching and interactions with students, resulting in improved student outcomes. The positive outcomes reported by faculty members demonstrate the program's effectiveness in achieving its objectives and highlight the importance of emotional intelligence in teaching and learning. In conclusion, the one-week faculty development program on Emotional Intelligence organized by the IQAC of Anwarul Uloom College of Business Management was a success. The program aimed to enhance the emotional intelligence of the faculty members, and it achieved its objectives. The program helped the faculty members develop an understanding of Emotional Intelligence, self-awareness, self-regulation, motivation, empathy, and social skills.

The program resulted in positive outcomes, such as enhanced emotional intelligence, improved self-awareness, effective self-regulation, motivated faculty members, empathetic faculty members, and improved communication and interpersonal skills. Overall, the program was a

OUTCOME OF THE PROGRAM:

The Anwarul Uloom College of Business Management recently conducted a one-week faculty development program on Digital Literacy, in collaboration with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC). The Faculty Development Program on DIGITAL LITERACY commenced with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell Coordinator & Vice-Principal Mr. Mohammed Ibrahim Uddin giving an introduction of the speaker Dr. Mohd. Aijaz, Professor Anwarul Uloom College of Business Management. The program was aimed at enhancing the digital literacy skills of the faculty members and providing them with the necessary tools and techniques to incorporate technology into their teaching. The one-week faculty development program on digital literacy organized by the IQAC of Anwarululoom College of Business Management was a great success. The program was attended by 50 faculty members from different departments of the college.

The program covered various topics of Digital Literacy. The sub-theme covered various digital tools and technologies that can be used in teaching and research. It included topics like Learning Management Systems (LMS), multimedia tools, and online assessment tools. Dr. Mohd Aijaz spoke on topics such as Tools and Techniques for Digital Teaching, Digital Assessment and Evaluation, Online Learning and Collaboration, Digital Literacy Fundamentals, Digital Learning Tools and Techniques, Digital Citizenship and Ethics, Emerging Technologies and Trends and Innovative Teaching Methods. The program encouraged the faculty members to develop innovative teaching methods that can make the learning process more engaging and interactive. The FDP encouraged the faculty members to use technology in innovative ways to improve the learning outcomes of the students.

One of the out come of this FDP was it provided the necessary tools and techniques to use online platforms to facilitate learning and collaboration among the students. The program created a forum for the exchange of ideas and experiences among the faculty members, which led to the sharing of best practices and innovative teaching methods. The topic Personalized Learning and Differentiation was clearly explained and stated an exploration of how technology could be used to personalize learning and differentiate instruction based on the needs and preferences of individual learners.

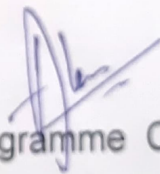

Another major outcome of the program was that the Participants who attend an FDP on Digital Literacy Program are likely to develop their digital literacy skills, including their ability to use technology tools and techniques effectively, to integrate technology into teaching and learning, and to make informed decisions regarding digital ethics and citizenship.

In conclusion, the one-week faculty development program on Digital Literacy organized by the IQAC of Anwarul Uloom College of Business Management was a great success. The program helped the faculty members to enhance their digital literacy skills, use technology in innovative ways, improve their assessment and evaluation methods, use online platforms to facilitate learning and collaboration among students, and exchange ideas and experiences among the faculty members. Overall, the program was highly beneficial for the faculty members, and it is
